Our correspondent "Visitor" has good cause of complaint about the condition of Pedder's Wharf. This structure has for many years past been a discredit to the colony. Situated in the most central part of the town, at the foot of the Clock Tower, and used by at least nine-tenths of the Europeans who land here, it is altogether in-modate. More especially has this been the case since the great increase in the number of steam launches plying in the harbour. Not infrequently may be seen four or five steam launches, two or three European gigs, and as many sampans all at the same moment seeking to land passengers. As only one steam launch can be accommodated on each side of this short wharf at a time, it follows that passengers frequently have to bution for its funds for missionary work in the wait for some time before they can get interior of China. alongside, and then perhaps have to land through a cloud of smoke from the funnels of the steam launches clustered thickly round. The crowding of the boats at the wharfis responsible, moreover, for other drawbacks in the shape of much bumping, the risk of a severe collision, and the clamorous and angry vells of the various boatmen. SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

The plaintiff claims from the delendant $151.68 as damages for his dismissal from the American barque C. B. Hazelline on the 6th March. The parties are both American citizens, and the plaintiff was employed as a cook and steward at New York for a period of two years. The writ Surely no sensible person can imagine that there is of summons was taken out on the 16th March Consul, addressed to the late Mr. Justice Snowden a letter or protest stating that Messrs. Dennys and Mossop had informed him of the commencement of a suit against the master, and the Consul then states that the plaintiff was discharged by him in accordance with the laws the United States on the 6th March and his wages amounting to $255.9L were paid to him, and that the captain paid his board and lodging till the 12th, when a free passage was offered to him to San Francisco, which he declined. The Consul then proceeds to state that the laws of the United States, which are a part of a seaman's shipping contract, invest a Consul with the power and discretion which he saw proper to exercise. He then goes on to state reasons why he should exercise that power and says, "It is hardly necessary for me to state the reasons for my entering a protest against a Court in this colony undertaking to review and reverse my action in a case which the laws of my own country and H.B.M.'s exequator give me for authority to adjudicate. Both comity and public feeling for bid the intervention, as there would be no end to litigation between sailors and shipmasters if there were to be no finality to the judgment of a Consul over questions of wages which he is specially charged to determine," etc. The late Mr. Justice Spowden did not deal with this case. and it came before me last week, when I found Mr. Dennys filed an affidavit by the plaintiff complainant, who was left in charge, followed by by cruisers in their expeditions along the East is admitted that the plaintiff had invoked the Consul's aid, and that the Cousul had investigated the matter. -" the mate and four of the crew were examined in my presence." But after the law was expounded by the Supreme Court the practice adopted since 1874 has been yours, &c., not to deal with cases involving disputes bewhen there is a foreign Consul of the nation to which the vessel belongs in the colony, and who either has dealt with the matter or undertakes to deal with it. In the present case the Consul certifies that he has discharged the plaintiff from the ship for misconduct, and granted a certificate of discharge on the 6th March, that he heard all the plaintiff had to urge and awarded him wages amounting to $255.91, that the captain paid for his board and lodging from the day of his discharge until the 12th March, when a free passage was offered him to San Francisco, which he declined The Consul further certifies that the laws the United States, which are a part of the seaman's shipping contract, invest him with the power of discharging seamen for misconduct; and this is not contested, but only that there was no misconduct of such a kind as to justify what was done. The plaintiff acquiesced in the decision. and no exception is taken until some difference arises about the plaintiff going in the Oceanic By the contract entered into between the master and the scamen they agreed to submit differences to the award of the Consulus arbitrator. CHINA'S TELEGRAPH SYSTEM.

The other day we published (save the Courier) a short paragraph respecting the rapid progress Chinais making in developing a telegraphic system entirely across her vast Empire, from Tientsin in the north to Canton in the south. The line from Tientsin to Shanghai, as is pretty well known, follows the banks of the Grand Causl, with principal stations at Sinching, Cheling, Chinkiangpoo, (on the banks of the old Yellow river) Chinkiang for (on the Yangtsze) and Soochow, and from Scochow to Shanghai. This line was constructed in 1882 solely on account of the Chinese Government, and since it was opened in November of that year, it has been worked satisfactorily under native management, and success has attended the enterprise. Lately the Government has sold out its interest in the line to the Imparial Chinese Telegraph Company, an association in which Chinese alone are allowed to take shares. Its capital is $300,000 in shares of $100 each. We are not aware whether the Company arn round and object to it. I see nothing has been granted any monopoly rights for the eraction of telegraphs in the Empire, but we should imagine not, as the company is in no words of Lord Eldon, and following the settled way interested in the line that connects Nanpractice of the court for the past nine years. I king with the main line at Secchow. This connecting line was built last summer by His Excellency Tso Tsung Tang, but it is freely used. for commercial as well as for official purposes. The great enterprise that has now assumed a most practicable shape, a line from Socchow to Canton, is undertaken by the Imperial Chinese Felograph Company, and it is expected that nearly twelve months will elapse before the work of construction is completed. From Seechow the line will pass through the populous silk districts to Ningpo, thence it will proceed to Wenchow, Feechew, Chang-Chow, Swatow and on to-Canton. There is already a telegraphic station at Amoy, and in consequence it seems to have been de-med inadvisable for the new line night soil into her boat thereby endangering a to touch there, but Chang-Chow is not distant more than ten or lifteen miles from Amoy. Thus in twelve months nearly all the open ports in pular woman, as she is in the habit of obstinately China, except Chefoo and Newchwang, will be connected by telegraph, under a system which is boat boys sometimes play tricks on her.
